DESCRIPTION

Bralorne can be accessed from Whistler via Pemberton and over the Hurley forest service road during the summer months, or year-round through Lillooet and Gold Bridge BC. This quiet mountain town is becoming increasingly popular with its stunning Mountain landscapes, crystal clear rivers and endless Backcountry Recreation on your doorstep. This historic gold-mining community in the rural Bridge River Valley (Chilcotin Ranges) of southwestern British Columbia, was once one of Canada's richest gold camps (Bralorne-Pioneer Mine operated from the 1930s-1970s and produced over 4 million ounces of gold). Bralorne has a small general store, pub, post office, museum volunteer fire department and a community hall.

The home situated on a 0.15-acre lot is a simple 930 ft cabin originally built in the 1930s, but significantly renovated and maintained throughout the years. With power, city water and city sewer it has all the amenities you would need. Affordable homes such as this in British Columbia are becoming increasingly rare.

This cozy home with open living room complete with fully WETT inspected wood stove keeps the house warm when the snow is piling up in this mountain town. The home has two and a half bedrooms, one bathroom, kitchen and small dining area that opens onto the back patio. A workshop at the rear of the property is wired for power and provides excellent secure storage for all tools, mountain bikes and other necessities to enjoy the recreation in the area. Covered wood storage in the backyard rounds out the exterior structures. The property is a corner lot so only has a neighbor on two sides. The property takes in the lush greenery of the mountains surrounding the town.

Affordable options such as this do not come up for sale often, so it's always advisable to buy them when you see them as they can be challenging to find twice. With Bralorne's outdoor recreation scene continually increasing in popularity—from world-class snowmobiling to alpine hiking—this property is perfectly positioned as your year-round home or recreational get-away.

DIRECTIONS

Please see the mapping section of this listing for detailed location. Bralorne can be accessed from Whistler via Pemberton and over the Hurley forest service road during the summer months, or year-round through Lillooet and Gold Bridge.

AREA DATA

Bralorne is a small, historic, mountain community in BC's Squamish-Lillooet Regional District.

Located in the Bridge River Valley of the South Chilcotin region and is accessible from the Sea-to-Sky corridor as well as the Interior of British Columbia.

- Gold Bridge: approximately 5 km | 5 minutes
- Pemberton: approximately 100 km | 2 hours via Hurley Forest Service Road
- Whistler: approximately 130 km | 3 hours via Pemberton and the Hurley Forest Service Road
- Lillooet: approximately 110 km | 2 hours
- Kamloops: approximately 230 km | 4 hours
- Vancouver: approximately 300 km | 5-6 hours

Access from Pemberton to the Bridge River Valley is commonly via the Hurley Forest Service Road, a well-known mountain route used by locals and recreationists that connects the Sea-to-Sky corridor to the South Chilcotin region. Seasonal conditions can affect travel times, particularly in winter months.

The town sits in a valley surrounded by extensive backcountry terrain and a network of lakes, trails, and alpine passes. The area provides direct access to outdoor recreation and large expanses of surrounding Crown land.

Bralorne has a mix of seasonal cabins and year-round residents who value the quiet setting and access to outdoor recreation. While Bralorne itself has limited services, the nearby community of Gold Bridge—approximately 5 km away—offers basic amenities, and the area functions as a close-knit rural community.

RECREATION

Recreation in and around Bralorne is well known among backcountry recreationists who appreciate remote terrain and access to large alpine landscapes. The area is a destination for backcountry skiing and snowmobiling, with consistent winter snowpack and long alpine runs in the surrounding mountains.

During the winter months, many areas are accessed by snowmobile or snowcat, reinforcing Bralorne's role as a basecamp for winter exploration in the South Chilcotin backcountry.

In the warmer months, Bralorne attracts hikers, mountain bikers, and off-road riders exploring the network of historic mining roads and alpine trails that branch out from the community. Routes lead to high ridgelines, alpine meadows, and viewpoints across the surrounding ranges. A notable nearby destination is Mead Lake, located just above town. The lake is a popular local spot for fishing, paddling, and quiet afternoons by the water, with a recreation site and trail access that make it a frequent gathering place for residents and visitors.

The nearby Carpenter Lake Reservoir in the Bridge River Valley offers additional opportunities for boating and fishing. Just beyond the valley, South Chilcotin Mountains Provincial Park provides an extensive trail network known for multi-day hiking, horseback riding, and wildlife viewing. With broad access to surrounding Crown land and relatively light visitor traffic, Bralorne functions as a base for those seeking quiet access to the mountains and lakes of the South Chilcotin region.

HISTORY

Known as a historic gold-mining community, Bralorne's story began with the 1897 discovery of the Lorne claim, though it wasn't until the 1930s that the town truly flourished.

During the Great Depression, while most of the world faced economic collapse, Bralorne boomed. The Bralorne Mine and the nearby Pioneer Mine became the richest gold producers in Canada. At its peak, the town was a bustling mountain hub with high-end amenities, including a hospital, a library, and even tennis courts.

By the time the main mines closed in 1971, they had produced over 4 million ounces of gold. Today, Bralorne is a great spot for those who appreciate its history, and the rugged outdoors.
