AREA DATA

Prince George, with a population of 74,003, is the largest city in northern British Columbia and is often referred to as the “Northern Capital” of the province. Strategically located at the confluence of the Fraser and Nechako Rivers and the crossroads of Highway 16 and Highway 97, it serves as the primary service and supply hub for the fast-growing northern region. This central positioning enhances its importance as a key player in BC’s economy and culture, offering critical infrastructure and amenities for both residents and businesses.

As the dominant economic center of the region, Prince George hosts a robust public sector, with significant contributions from healthcare and education. The Northern Health Authority, headquartered here, operates with a substantial budget, continuously investing in local healthcare infrastructure. Educational institutions like the University of Northern British Columbia (UNBC) and the College of New Caledonia, along with School District #57, collectively infuse hundreds of millions into the local economy. While the city’s economy historically leaned heavily on the lumber industry, shifts toward mining exploration, potential petroleum development, and other industries are poised to diversify its economic base, positioning Prince George as a dynamic hub for future growth and opportunity.

Ness Lake is a picturesque area located approximately 30 minutes northwest of Prince George. It features a mix of year-round residences and seasonal cottages, with properties ranging from cozy cabins to larger, modern homes. The area is characterized by its serene natural beauty, offering a peaceful, rural lifestyle while still being conveniently close to the amenities and services of Prince George.

The lake itself spans a significant area, providing a scenic backdrop to the surrounding properties. The region benefits from well-maintained roads and essential services such as electricity and internet connectivity, making it an attractive location for those seeking a balance between tranquil living and accessibility. The local community is tight-knit, with a mix of long-term residents and newcomers, contributing to a welcoming and friendly atmosphere.

RECREATION

Ness Lake and the surrounding Prince George area offer a diverse range of recreational activities, making it a popular destination for outdoor enthusiasts. The lake itself is a hub for water-based activities such as swimming, kayaking, canoeing, and fishing, with anglers often catching rainbow trout and kokanee. During the summer months, the calm waters are perfect for boating and paddleboarding, while the lake's serene beaches provide ideal spots for picnicking and relaxation. The surrounding forests offer scenic trails for hiking and biking. In winter, the area transforms into a snowy playground, with opportunities for ice fishing, snowshoeing, and cross-country skiing. The nearby mountains and parks, such as the Forests for the World and Otway Nordic Ski Centre, offer groomed trails and stunning landscapes for winter sports.
